

'...this quartet has remained faithful to a few distinct aesthetic ideals. One is that the music must always appear in three dimensions, and that nobody's ego shall be allowed to get in the way. I know of no other quartet in which the players efface themselves as selflessly as in the Borodin, as if each player were actively engaged in playing all the parts, not just the one under his fingers.'

BORODIN QUARTET

Summary

- One of the great quartets of our time, the Borodin Quartet is entering its seventh decade – a living link to the legacy of the past century!
- Their affinity with Russian repertoire was stimulated by their early close relationship with Shostakovich, who personally supervised their study of each of his quartets
- The Quartet has performed complete cycles of the Shostakovich and Beethoven quartets all over the world, including Vienna, Zurich, Frankfurt, Madrid, Lisbon, Seville, London, Paris and New York. These are widely regarded as definitive interpretations
